The Toronto Blue Jays are moving on from pitcher Anthony Bass after he made headlines last week for sharing anti-LGBTQ2S posts on social media.

It was quite the turnaround as Bass was set to help the team kick off Pride weekend celebrations at the Rogers Centre Friday night.

As Mike Drolet reports, the pitcher's symbolic gesture was too little, too late for an organization that prides itself on inclusion.

I love how this video characterized what Bass reposted as "homophobic" and how they described the Target situation. Get the facts on what Target was selling as Pride-related. This video is really biased and has an agenda in the message it's trying to get across. 😊

Anthony Bass should do a Kaepernick and sue the Toronto Blue Jays and MLB. Whether he can sue them legally or not, that will at least bring some attention to the issue.

He's lucky the team didn't hand him over to Biden for some real punishment.

He apologized and they still sacked him. Goes to show that apologizing to the woke mob isn't even worth it.

Canada's law allows for freedom of religion. He was exercising his rights. That NEVER warrants an apology and/or "re-education!"

Ross Atkins mishandled this situation. In light of the Budweiser and Target lessons there were better solutions.

1) Do not let Bass near the mound for home games. 2) Start working immediately on a trade. Lots of teams would have taken him. (BTW The Yankees and many other teams don't even have a Pride night) 3. They got an apology from Bass, and after that he should not have been near the media. To have him catch the first pitch last night was an insane idea, and the

His only mistake was apologizing. Keep grooming out of baseball and Target.

Ross you want no one hurt. What about all of us who are not fans of the "woke" people. This is a right to all of us who do not favor this line of abuse being pushed down all of us who are not in favor of l-g-b-t-q. Who give us a voice?
