Neo Nazi's at Kellie Keens rally in Melbourne

In the wake of Kellie Keens Antipodean mis-adventure running out of road in Aotearoa/New Zealand in the most humiliating way (covered in cold soup) her little cult of conspiracy theorists regrouped in London today in speakers corner to show some solidarity for their own vacuous cause.

It has been well documented for some time that Keen has links to far right networks. Trans Safety Network has covered this in detail and anyone in denial of this is either naïve or wilfully ignorant. The meeting today further confirms the conspiracy theories they indulge in.

The first speaker here follows the latest attempt to reframe the events on Keens speaking tour as violence directed at women. There were a couple of incidents of crowd related violence but in reality the violence was aimed at counter protesters by Keens security.

The next speaker talks about “globalists”- Mentioning Larry Fink, CEO of BlackRock, an American multinational investment management corporation. She seems to be parroting narratives verbatim which have been part of anti-LGBTQ discourse promoted by conservative/popularist YouTube channels recently.

Then we get on to anti-science talk. These are the talking points of GBnews and TalkTV. There isn't a lot of talk about gender, they are moving into the wider world of climate denial and the links to all subjects Tufton Street think-tanks promote. Total fear mongering here.

There's attempt to call out these dubious talking points from a by-stander who is drowned out by a "let women speak" mantra. This isn't women speaking. Is it the far right of government and political influencers who have been boosted on social media by analytics consultancies and click farms.

This last clip shows just how little they understand their own cause. They clap along and agree to things which make no sense. The speaker tried to state that “woman” is not an identity but on asking the crowd if they agree they just don’t get it. Its hard not to laugh.

The real serious part of this for me is who actually builds this narrative and it is NOT these women. I can have some sympathy with their sense of powerlessness. The incubation of paranoias during the pandemic certainly benefited some people. Most notably The New Culture Forum.

New Culture Forum (NCF), a right-wing think tank also housed at Tufton Street. Its mission is “challenging the orthodoxies dominant in our institutions, public life and wider culture”. This the money and influence behind a lot of these talking points at Gender Critical rallies.

Kellie Keen is media platformed by them often and in my opinion they see her brand of 'feminism' as useful. Mainly because it isn't feminism at all and the NCF have found a useful duplicitous tool to recruit women into a movement which benefits political interests.

When Keen's message is correctly analysed by real journalism, as in Australia, her message is clear to see as hopeless, divisive and propelled by performative arguments which only seek to demonise people. To those journalists it is obvious. Why is it not so clear in the UK?

JK Rowling blasts 'repellent' New Zealand 'mob' after British trans critic Kellie-Jay Keen is doused in tomato sauce and evacuated by police before she can speak at rally

- 'Transphobe' Kellie-Jay Keen hit with tomato juice and may not continue her tour
- JK Rowling has since hit out at trans rights protesters in New Zealand and the UK

JK Rowling has slammed trans rights activists in New Zealand and the UK, labelling scenes in Auckland 'repellant' after Let Women Speak organiser Kellie-Jay Keen was hit with tomato sauce.

The controversial activist, who is known as Posie Parker, was doused with tomato juice at her rally on Saturday, forcing her to leave the protest early in the back of a police car.

The attack has now brought into question whether she will go forward with her upcoming rally in Wellington, with angry protesters making their views that the mother, from Wiltshire, is not welcome.

The people of Australia and New Zealand were right to protest these moves towards authoritarianism. They understand that this is NOT women with a grass-roots movement towards emancipation. Its quite the opposite and it is run by the same misogynists who will also come for them.

When I started this blog, calling it the Terf Reich felt like an irreverent joke. After last months news I feel like the joke is no longer funny. The culture war will continue to be ramped up in coming years leading up to both UK and US premier elections. That war is not orchestrated by trans OR terfs.

If it takes them to travel 11k miles to show them up then so be it. The people of those territories don't stand for it and neither should we. This was the Australian response and support of Trans Day of Visibility on Friday. At least that gives me hope even if nothing else.
