

The video player could not be loaded because your privacy preferences don't allow content from external websites.

Update your privacy preferences to allow 'External Content' to load this video.

Update privacy preferences

View on YouTube

29 Aug 2023

The young people impacted by Missouri law restricting transgender rights

Siobhan Kennedy

Washington Correspondent

A swathe of Republican-controlled states across America have been passing laws restricting transgender rights – the latest, Missouri where new legislation has just come into force.

Transgender minors, and some adults will no longer be able to access puberty blockers, gender affirming surgery and hormone treatment, while transgender girls and women will be barred from playing on female sports teams.

We spoke to some of the young people and their families who'll be affected.

